This piece is intended to be of flexible duration, so as to be adaptable to various liturgical circumstances. Therefore, the antiphon may be sung once through without the addition of any verses; if a verse is added, one may then repeat back to the beginning (D. C.) or to the sign (D. S.) depending on how much additional liturgical time needs to be filled. (The antiphon and verse[s] should be sung in the same language.) If the Offertory actions are quite lengthy, one might even follow the form A-V1-A-V2-A. If a verse or verses are added, it is preferable that the music conclude with the antiphon (in whole or in part). – C. M.
